GUJARĀT – A RICH HERITAGE

The name, ' Gujarāt ' is said to have been derived from the Prakrit Gujjar Ratta or Gujjar Rāshtra (the land of the Gujjars) a tribe that entered India with the Hūns in ancient times and settled in western India.

Many ancient remains in Gujarāt recall its ancient history. The Emperor Ashoka's rock edicts of the 3rd Century B.C. near Junāgadh and the rock inscription of King Skandagupta on the banks of Lake Sudarshan tell of the imperial sway of the Maurya and Gupta dynasties over Gujarāt. The magnificent carved temple of Modhera, Girnār and Shetrunjay testify to the splendour of the Solanki and Vāghela rulers in medieval times. Life in modern Gujarāt reflects these diverse aspects of its history.

The State is dotted with textile mills, petroleum refineries, fertilizer plants, co-operative dairy farms and other business enterprises. It is also the destination of pilgrims who come to seek inspiration from the homeland of Mahātma Gāndhi, the 20th Century saint and philosopher of non-violence.

Gujarāt enjoys dominantly a tropical monsoonal climate. The rainfall is significantly heavy in the southern tip and south-eastern areas and goes on declining towards and goes on declining towards north-west. The normal Annual rainfall varies between 380 millimetres and 2,100 millimetres. The temperature is the lowest along the west coast showing obviously the maritime influences.

Gujarāt's wild life, its miles of unspoiled beaches, mild and pleasant weather, superb heritage of art and architecture, colourful and spontaneous people with their traditional dance(Garba), costumes, customs and life-style provides a rare travel experience for the tourists.
